The Renewable Energy Power Purchase Agreements seminar is designed for those in the renewable energy industry who are new to PPAs or who have worked with PPAs for a while and are ready to gain a deeper understanding of key provisions of PPAs, central legal concerns, and the allocation and mitigation of risk in PPA transactions.

This course will break PPA issues into issues that arise during the pre-commercial operation period, issues related to the actual achievement of commercial operation, and issues that arise in the post-commercial operation period. Examples of problems that have arisen both before and after project completion will be given, and the solutions to these problems will be discussed. The topics covered will include risk allocation during curtailments, environmental considerations, managing change in law risk, the process and requirements for the declaration of milestone completion (especially the commercial operation milestone), liquidated damages, indemnification, and limitations of liability. Special consideration will be given to issues arising with distributed generation projects, alternative structures to PPAs, and issues arising in corporate PPAs.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Review the basics of project finance, PPA contract terms, and the PPA bidding process
- Assess sample PPA language
- Discuss methods and practices for successful negotiations
- Review key provisions and provisions arising under certain PPA structures
- Discuss how to appreciate and allocate legal and commercial risks
- Review non-typical PPA structures
